BUILDING A NEW CULTURE:

Many Catholics today are rightly concerned about the state of our natural environment. In order to assist them, the Episcopal Commission for Justice and Peace of the Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops (CCCB) is offering a modest outline of 8 central themes found in recent Church teaching on the environment.

These reflect on how a Catholic approach to economic questions, social justice, and environmental questions are necessarily viewed in relation to each other. It is hoped that these themes will serve as a guide to discussion, reflection, and decision-making on the very real environmental problems we face today.

FOURTH CENTRAL THEME:

Responsible Stewardship

Nature has attained its fulfillment in human beings, who have received the task of giving thanks for it and caring for it. This care, identified as “subduing” (Gn 1.28) in the Bible, is not domination but rather “responsible stewardship.” As a steward, human beings recognize that the environment does not belong to them but is a gift entrusted to them which demands responsibility in action. Human beings discern the role granted to them by God by exercising their reflexive intelligence and ethical judgment.
